

One country, two Disneys

Hong Kong Disneyland faces some stiff competition for the local tourism dollar when Shanghai Disney opens its doors in June. The mainland park will be three times the size of Hong Kong's offering and have a host of unique attractions, but Hong Kong Disney has expansion plans of its own which will breathe new life into the much-loved local attraction.

DID YOU KNOW?

All hands on deck

All Disney employees are called cast members. This is because staff are putting on the "show", which is the guest experience at any Disney theme park.

Lucky numbers

The main ballroom at Hong Kong Disneyland Hotel is 888 square metres. The restaurant is decorated with 2,238 crystal lotuses as the number sounds like the Cantonese phrase "easy generate wealth".

Super-sized

The movie screen for Mickey's PhilHarMagic is the world's largest seamless projection screen at 46 metres long and 8.5 metres high.

Classic link

The singing voice from the wishing well at Hong Kong Disneyland's Snow White Grotto is that of Adriana Caselotti, the voice of the original classic Snow White.

European inspiration

Fantasy Garden at Hong Kong Disneyland is modeled after a classic English garden and the Tivoli Garden in Denmark. These were Walt Disney's inspirations for the original Disneyland.

Monkey business

At Shanghai Disneyland's Garden of the 12 Friends, the animals of the Chinese zodiac will be represented by Disney characters; this year, 2016, will feature Abu - Aladdin's pet monkey.
